

PRESS RELEASE

epic.TWO Summer LAN Gaming Festival

The next instalment of the epic.LAN gaming series will be taking place at MMU Alsager this July involving 100 participants with tickets selling fast.

These events are opportunities for PC and console gaming enthusiasts to meet up enjoy a weekend of gaming in a more social atmosphere than the traditional home environment. Participants travel from all over the UK to attend these events with the furthest making their journeys from as far as Essex and Scotland.

Jon Winkle, epic.LAN Event Manager, explains, "While many leisure time activities are currently suffering with belt-tightening, it seems that gaming isn't suffering. People world-wide are enjoying LAN gaming events such as ours. The largest of these events in the world, Dreamhack in Sweden, currently attracts in excess of 10,000 gamers to their events. We're not quite on that level (yet!), but the concept is the same, we provide an enjoyable weekend for people who like gaming!"

epic.TWO starts at 4pm on Thursday 23rd July and runs all the way through to 4pm on Sunday 26th July with gaming continuing throughout the night.

Notes to the Editor

The team behind epic.LAN has six years of experience running gaming events in various locations around the UK but has its roots in the North Staffordshire & South Cheshire area. The aim behind the events is to provide a social outlet for gaming enthusiasts and to allow gamers to meet others who they may only have ever spoken to in an online environment.
